Fox

Chihuahua, Terrier, Pug mix

Five years old

Male, neutered

An ideal home for Fox would be one without children especially young children and other animals as he does not do well at all with either. He prefers females, but is okay with some men. He needs a home that can be patient, understanding and respect his boundaries. Fox is not okay with being picked up or touched in certain areas like his underside. Fox does not like grooming, he must be muzzled when groomed, specifically for nail trimming and bathing. He is affectionate on his own terms like a cat. He enjoys spending his days relaxing with you on the couch, but we think he'd enjoy going on outdoor adventures as well. Once he's comfortable he will greet you with excited kisses. He wants to be the center of attention and gets jealous of other animals. We think he could thrive in a home that meets these needs. Unfortunately we have a toddler and other animals in the home and he is not thriving here. We want what is best for him and unfortunately our home just is not the right fit.
